- Runs natively on Power Macs with Mac OS 8.6 or later
- Native for Mac OS X
- Works with both MacTCP and OpenTransport
- Can be bundled with your own freeware, shareware, and commercial products

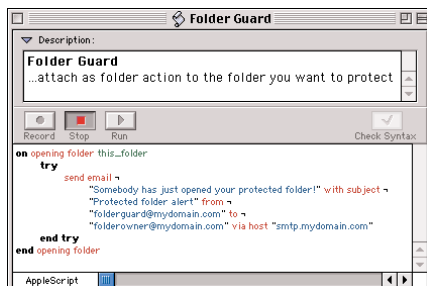

With 24U Email OSAX you can automate sending e-mails quickly and easily.

You don't have to install any scriptable e-mail application to send e-mails. With just a single AppleScript command, you can send e-mails directly using your favorite SMTP host.

After installing 24U Email OSAX, your computer will understand one new AppleScript statement – “send email”. In this statement you can easily specify text of your e-mail, main recipient(s), “Cc” recipients, and even hidden “Bcc” recipients. You can also provide a “Reply-to” address which is different from the sender's address.

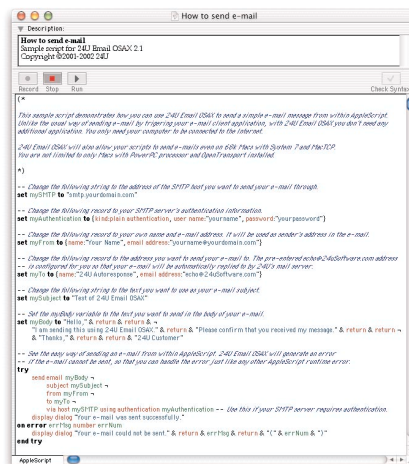

If you need to send lots of e-mails from within your database, why not use AppleScript to do the job automatically for you? If you are a Mac server admin, why not use AppleScript to inform you about important events by e-mail?

With the Folder Actions feature of Mac OS, you can also set up a special guard script that will send you an e-mail whenever somebody opens, closes, or modifies contents of your protected folder.

Simply install this scripting addition into your system, and forget you ever needed to launch your e-mail application before you were able to send your automated e-mails.

With 24U Email OSAX you can just relax because your computer will do all the boring e-mail work for you.

Now you can even choose from several kinds of SMTP authentication to let your server know that you are an authorized user...
